

Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area is a unit of the National Park system. Hunting is permitted throughout most of the park. There are National Park Service (NPS) park specific regulations which are briefly outlined in this brochure. It is the responsibility of the hunter to be aware of the latest regulations and closures which can change. Additionally, all applicable state regulations apply. Please be considerate of other outdoor enthusiasts using the same area in which you are hunting. The following are prohibited:

- Hunting in plowed, planted fields, or in fields with unharvested crops;
- hunting from, along, or across roads, or any kind of motorized vehicle;
- trapping, baiting, target practicing or spotlighting;
- driving or pursuing an animal through closed areas with intention of killing it or possessing any method of taking;
- using screw-in foot pegs or permanently attaching a stand to a tree;
- releasing any animal or bird into the park for the purpose of hunting or dog training;
- off-road driving and "four-wheeling";
- backcountry camping or campfires;
- blocking gates or access roads; and
- driving on the McDade Recreational Trail.

All areas within 450 feet of any structure are closed to hunting. Please observe no hunting zones surrounding specified sites. Islands within the park in the Delaware River bordering Pike County are within the jurisdiction of New Jersey. For more information see: www.nps.gov/DEWA
